large force of Arabs had gone in search of Joubert.

The news from the seat of insurrection is of the most meagre kind, but it is sufficient to cause the gravest anxiety to be felt, not only for the anti-slavery expeditions mentioned, but also for the Catholic and Protestant missions at Tanganyika and the Hodister commercial expedition to the Lomani river, as well as for the security of a number of free state officials on the Univer Congo.

LOUISVILLE, Kr., Aug. 12.—A sensational crime has just come to light. On Sunday morning the body of a woman was washed ashore at A Desperado Brought to Earth.

Willough Point, opposite this city. It was identified as that of Mary Lengel, a former chambermaid of Eckert's Hotel, this city, and the theory was suicide. After the police and detective departments of the two cities dropped the case a reporter found the woman had been outraged and murdered by two men. Four boys—Walter Farrell, James Morrison, Charles Heitzatch and Wilbur Smith—saw two men drag a woman through Hyde Park, a suburb of Jeffersonville, late Saturday night, outrage her near the river bank, beat her and then drag her to the bar below the Pennsylvania bridge, where they left the woman screaming, after blows had been rained down on her head. One of the men wore a dark, stubby beard, a derby hat, black coat and vest and a light part of trousers. The boys were so frightened that they were afraid to talk until last night, when one of them recognized a picture of the dead woman in a daily paper as being that of the woman stan was found there. The men, it is believed, probably killed the woman and then hurled the body into the rapids of the falls. The head was crushed in, and this is thought to have been caused by the body striking the rocks.

location of the next conclave finally settled at Boston the main interest in the session subsided and campaigning gave way to gaiety of the liveliest sort. Boston commandery had departed long before the decision was made, but there were plenty of Massachnetts people left and today they are busy at the Glenarm Hotel entertaining their callers and receiving congratulations. The callers and not come singly, but in crowda. It has come to be the regular thing for a commandery to form at any reasonable hour and, preceded by its own band, make a tour of the headquarters. Those processions were on the go all morning. Massachusetts headquarters probably had the most visitors, but Indiana, kansas, Kentucky, Missouri and Michigan all had as much as they could do to care for the crowds that came.

Tonight the festivities will close with the grandest social event of the conclave. It will be an immense banquet at the Windsor, to be given to the eminent grand encampment by the Denver knights. Preparations have been made to have it on such a scale as will be hard to equal anywhere. The business of today was to act on the recommendations of the emi-TWO CENTS.

The knights are beginning to thin out. About twenty commanderies left last night and an equal number is preparing to leave today. Newton, No. 2, of Newton, Kan., departs tonight. Many Europeans at Zanzibar are inclined to charge the Portuguese with having stimulated the Arab rising and supplied arms and ammunition to the Arabs in order to drive out European nations out of central Africa.

The Arabs in Zanzibar do not conceal their satisfaction with the news, as there is deep irritation there on account of interference with the slave trade, which interference has greatly injured business both at Zanzibar and Pemba. The clove trade is in a most depressed condition owing to the lack of slave labor, and many of the planters see nothing but ruin confronting them. In this condition of affairs the uprising of the slave-trading Arabs has the carnest sympathy of the slave-owning Arabs, and it is believed that the insurrection has ramifications extending from Zanzibar to Angola.
